Beauty: A New Spa Premieres at Cannes

So, you've forgotten your makeup bag (though remembered seven pairs of shoes) and you've just landed in Cannes for the film festival. There's so much to do before the premiere, you don't have time to seek out a local parfumerie and find your beloved skin-care products. You can, however, multitask with a visit to Sisley's new spa, U Spa Barrière, located at the Hôtel Majestic Barrière. This ocean-view spa opened just last month and offers all of Sisley's Phyto-Aromatic treatments, as well as a hammam and other attractions like the "water paradise" cabin complete with a series of special showers. There's even a signature facial that's just right for the festival: the Supreme Anti-Aging treatment featuring a deep-muscle facial massage with the company's newest cream, Supremya at Night (the result of seven years of research). Perfect pre-premiere—or the next afternoon, post-party.
